Mayoralty Battle Lines

Feeling Runs High In Race 'Stretch'

Violence Among Partisans Seen in Final Week of Bitterly-Fought Contest

What promised to be the most bitterly fought mayoralty election contest in a score of years entered its final full week today with supporters of each of the six candidates fighting to assure the success of their man.

Rallies will be held in every ward of the city tonight and indications are that before long police will have to cope with disturbances arising out of differences of opinion among friends of the candidates.

Feeling is already at high pitch in certain sections of Roxbury, South Boston and Charlestown, and political observers predict that there will be physical violence in those sections before long.

Yesterday and last night were particularly busy occasions for the candidates. Some political clubs held open house from noon until midnight and all of the men seeking election are scheduled to speak. Mayor Mansfield were given a hearing.

Members of the South Boston Young Democrats who voted last to endorse a mayoralty candidate will have the entire group as their choice as soon as the delegates to the Democratic City Committee Club in East Eighth street to-morrow evening.

Tobin Charges Mayoral Foes With Money Waste, Incompetency

The main issues of Boston's mayoralty campaign are whether the city must suffer for four years under the administration of a man who is impressed by the failure of his predecessor and who has proved an aptitude for giving the public a raw deal, School Committeeman Maurice J. Tobin declared last night.

If elected, former Governor Curley would throw the taxpayers' money away, Tobin charged. He said. Former Mayor Nichols is also pounded by a crew of political bankrupts, he charged. Tobin said. Former Mayor Attorney William J. Foley, he said, Nichols would mean trouble. He has never entered a courthouse door, Tobin said.

Curley, Nichols Killed Law For Preferential Primary---Foley

District Attorney William J. Foley charged last night that former Governor Curley and former Mayor Nichols acting jointly secured the repeal of the law which would have provided for a preferential mayoralty primary in Boston and the adoption of the Hare system of a Boston city, at that office.

Nichols, who started in 1925, received only 24 per cent of the vote cast for mayor, Foley said. He charged Curley and Nichols with having conspired to kill what opposition there was to the repeal of the law.

"There is now doubt that a definite shift of thousands of votes to Curley from minor candidates for the mayoralty is now under way," he said. "The voters realize that only a man of experience can cope with the desperate financial situation in which we now find the city after four years of incompetent administration.

"The welfare recipients realize that another mayor of the type of the incumbent will do little to help them while I, when I return to City Hall, will increase allotments to the needy.

"I will cut taxes. I will reduce unnecessary expenditures of municipal departments. But I will not do it at the expense of the poor and aged or at the expense of the city employees.

"I will give the home owners and taxpayers of Boston the type of administration for which they are now pleading and I will so conduct the office of mayor as to satisfy every element in the community. The record of my past achievements speak for itself."

Labor Support Assures His Election, Declares Curley

Former Governor James M. Curley today declared that the support he was receiving from the members of organized labor insures his election as Boston's next mayor, it was stated.

More than 200 members of labor groups have enrolled in the campaign committee during the past 24 hours, he said.

"I have suppressed and kept in suppression that vicious type in the community who profit on crime. I am their enemy. They are in the camps of my enemies," Foley declared.

"As District Attorney, when compassion and mercy was the proper procedure, I gave a fresh start, aid and encouragement to the juvenile, the unfortunate and the first offender. I suppressed the immoral, the dope peddler, payroll robbers, kidnapers, and professional gunman. Conscience has dictated my every act as district attorney."

Santosuosso Pledges End Of School 'Star Chamber' Sessions

Legislation to compel the members of the Boston School Committee to abandon their "star chamber" sessions and discuss school business in public will be sought by former Representative Alfred Santosuosso if he is elected mayor, he said today.

"My election as mayor will mean the end of all 'star chamber' proceedings," he said, "not only in the school committee but likewise in all other city departments.

"All bids will be publicly opened and publicly awarded to the lowest bidder. I shall keep close watch on the supply department of the city. The public works department will also be the subject of much scrutiny by me after my election.

"All books, records, and documents pertaining to the city business will be at all times be readily accessible to the voters.

"It is my intention to awaken the voters to the fact that all city property is public property and all municipal employes are their employes. City employes will be obliged at all times to be civil and courteous.

"I have particular reference to workers at Boston City Hospital. Persons compelled to frequent that institution are entitled to more courtesy than they have been receiving in recent years. There will be no more discourtesy there if I am elected."

'Modernization' of Boston's Finances Is Aim of Brett

"Modernization of Boston's entire financial structure is the task facing the city's next mayor," Carleton L. Brett, Social Justice nominee for that office, told audiences in Dorchester last night.

"I feel that of the six men in this mayoralty field I am the best qualified to assume that responsibility and to accomplish that task," he said. "I am an authority on municipal finance. I have devoted a lifetime to its study."

Mr. Brett declared that if elected mayor he will do much to lighten the lives of the needy and the aged. Adoption of the principles of Social Justice by the State government and by municipal department heads will be recommended by him if elected, he said.

He also promised to work for the solution of the financial problem arising out of the annual deficit of the East Boston traffic tunnel.

"I am convinced that the tunnel can be made to pay for itself and I will discuss the matter with financial experts immediately after I take office," he said.

Reduction of City Tax Rate Is Promised by Nichols

Former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols declared today that thousands of Boston Democrats are enrolled in his mayoralty campaign committee.

As proof of the enthusiasm of these Democrats for the Nichols cause, he cited the instance of Louis Epstein, who withdrew from the City Council contest in Ward 16, Dorchester, after being qualified by the municipal election commission, in order that he might devote his entire time to the promotion of the candidacy of the former mayor.

Nichols stated that if elected to another term at City Hall he will again devote himself to the task of reducing Boston's tax rate. Small home owners of the city are solidly behind his candidacy because they are convinced that he can make such reduction possible, he said.

election inquiry moved swiftly towards a climax these new developments were revealed.

Chairman David R. Shaw of the election commission called on Attorney James Flanagan to "make good" his charge that the name of William J. Hogan was forged on Maurice J. Tobin's nomination papers after they had been filed with the commission.

66 NEW "SPOOKS"

The Dorchester - Charlestown "ghost" population soared to a new high of 296 as Dorchester police found 66 new "spooks" in 22 houses in Wards 7, 16 and 17.

Shaw announced election department checkers had delisted 17 ghosts from the registration lists, nine in Dorchester, five in South Boston and three in Charlestown.

Detectives were reported ready to submit evidence against a well-known Charlestown woman, who, they allege, is implicated in the "ghostwriting" fraud.

The ghosting of Tobin's name and signature was brought to light by Flanagan in connection with the nomination papers filed by special messenger.

Flanagan charged that Tobin's name was forged to the papers filed by Hogan.

QUESTIONS SIX CLERKS

Hogan, whose name was used in the papers filed by Tobin, was questioned by Flanagan at his home at 8 Brooks street, Ward 13, Roxbury.

Hogan told Flanagan that he had signed no such papers and that he had never authorized anyone to sign his name.

Six clerks employed in the city messenger service to ferret out "ghosts" were questioned by Flanagan.

296 "GHOST VOTERS"

The 66 newly found "ghosts" brought the total of "ghosts" found in the 22 wards to 296, the highest figure reported so far.

The new "ghosts" were found in the following wards: Ward 7, 16; Ward 16, 5; Ward 17, 45.

Chairman Shaw announced that the election commission would not accept the findings of the Police Commissioner's department as to the "ghosts" but would make an independent check of the names.

Meanwhile police activity over the "ghost" case is directed almost exclusively by Commissioner Timilty, who himself is actively participating in the investigation.

WOMAN FACES QUIZ

The police investigation it was believed, will not be over the "ghostwriting" alone, but a relative of the suspected woman, Mrs. Mary Calkins, who disappeared after the commissioner demanded action from a score of detectives and other police officers.

It was said the police are seeking the woman to request her to submit information she has to investigate authorities.

In the event the woman said to be the wife of a corrective official passes up the opportunity afforded her authorities will seek a warrant for her arrest on the basis of evidence already assembled, it was authoritatively reported.

POLICE "PURGE" ON

Pending disposition of the Murphy case, Police Commissioner Timilty continued his purge of alleged conspirators hailing from within the police ranks.

As a long line of policemen were interrogated at the commissioner's office a lieutenant and three sergeants were said to be under suspicion of complicity with the plotters.

The police examined today are attached to the Fields Corner, Dorchester and Hyde square stations.

NEW EVIDENCE RUMORED

A rumor of important new evidence coming a stir after Detective Sergt. Arthur M. Tiernan, one of the investigators, conferred with Police Supt. Edward W. Fallon.

The conference, it was believed, was directly connected with tomorrows departmental hearing in the the case of Patrolman Frank J. Conlon, suspended by Timilty Saturday on a charge of participating in the fraud.

It is alleged that experts have identified Conlon's handwriting as resembling that on a number of the reputedly counterfeit master listing cards placed in police files.

CONLON EXPERT TO TESTIFY

Albert D. Osborne, penmanship expert, who was the star witness for the prosecution at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the Lindbergh kidnap-murder, will testify against the patrolman, it was announced.

Timilty and Fallon took a day off yesterday for the first time since the inquiry was opened, but investigators remained on duty, reporting by telephone.

With both sides expecting victory by a narrow margin, the campaign has centered in the effort of each party speech for Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, Democratic candidate for re-election, and Republican Senator James A. Farley.

Democratic supporters issued the Farley speech to win wavering New Deal voters back to the Democratic banner.

Straw Poll Ends Wednesday

Rush Ballots for Your Candidates---Nichols Gets 206 Votes

By FRANK K. REILLY

The Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser mayoralty straw ballot poll will come to a close at midnight on Wednesday.

Announcement of final tabulation of votes cast in the contest will be made as soon thereafter as possible.

Today's mail brought 549 new ballots, bringing the total cast since the beginning of the poll to 73,131.

Former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols received 206 votes today, School Committeeman Maurice J. Tobin, 190, former Governor James M. Curley, 51, District Attorney William J. Foley, 49, Alfred Santosuosso, 43, and Carleton L. Brett, 12.

Standing of the candidates is:

James M. Curley	29,510
William J. Foley	18,291
Malcolm E. Nichols	8,187
Maurice J. Tobin	8,452
Alfred Santosuosso	5,144
Carleton L. Brett	781

Readers of these newspapers who desire to participate in the straw poll are urged to mail their ballots at once. In past straw polls there has been a last minute rush of ballots which have swamped tabulators and made it impossible to announce returns within the first 24 hours after the close of the tally.

The editors of these newspapers hope to avert such a situation this year by enlisting the co-operation of all readers.

Subscribers of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser who have not cast their ballots as yet are urged to do so at once. It is the hope of the editors that this poll will prove to be as successful as those conducted in political contests in other years.

Curley Assails Endorsement Of Foley

Scores Democratic City Committee For Secret Vote

Endorsement of District Attorney William J. Foley in the mayoralty campaign was censured today by former Governor James M. Curley as a direct contribution to my campaign.

It was the second expression of disapproval of the Democratic City Committee's endorsement of Foley, Curley declared.

"The day of mass delivery of voters by any boss, big or little, has passed. The people can be relied upon today to do their own thinking and their own voting.

"The endorsement of Foley by the committee is a direct contribution to my campaign, because the vote was obtained secretly. Had the vot been taken at an open meeting, I might consider it otherwise."

As a result of the decision of the members of the Democratic City Committee to support Foley, thousands of conservative Democrats will now give final endorsement to my candidacy, he said.

"I am convinced that the committee will be found to be the deciding factor in the result of this contest and that their decision will be victorious on November 2."

"It could not endorse any candidate whose past record has alienated the confidence of Democrats, or whose defending of grander might cause him to overlook the needs of the rank and file."

For the first time in 30 years, the Democratic City Committee has been able to give an unbossed and unflitrated expression of opinion."

Fear Japanese Aim to Provoke British War

Claim Nippon Pilot Deliberately Fired On Soldiers

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SHANGHAI, Oct. 25 (INS)—The view that a Japanese airman acted deliberately when he machine-gunned and killed a British soldier and fired purposely on American civilians here Saturday while enjoying a Sunday outing on the outskirts of the International Settlement gained ground today in all circles of Shanghai.

As the British listened for the third time to Japanese apologies for assaults, eyewitnesses unanimously pronounced the new attacks must have been intentional.

Even in highest British ranks it was unofficially admitted that after the machine-gunning of the British ambassador, then the British air attacks, and now the killing of a "Tommy," they are forced to the conclusion that the leaders of the Japanese armed forces, with or without the approval of Tokio, are waging war against the British.

In the strategy it was believed Japan has three alternatives now:

One may be to provoke a war with China to complete the Shanghai campaign and hold on here before battleship fleet, which Japan purposely aimed against Nippon.

The second is to frighten Britain, America and other nations of the West into an attitude of complete passivity at the nine-power conference in Brussels.

And the last is to scare the many thousands of citizens of America and Britain now residing in China into thinking Japan is playing with dynamite.

Every British protest against previous Japanese attacks it is felt here, have increased the Japanese

Shift in U. S. War Policy Faces Final Congress Test

QUESTIONS ASKED U. S. SOLONS ON WAR

Subsequent to President Roosevelt's Chicago speech, advocating a "quarantine" of warlike nations, Representatives and Senators were asked, by telegraph, to answer the following seven questions:

1—Do you think United States should abide by its historical policy and keep free from League of Foreign Nations or do you think new conditions make new policies necessary?

2—Do you think United States should act with nine power treaty party and take sides in present foreign conflicts?

3—Do you think United States should act with league or combinations of foreign nations and resort to force or to hostile acts to repress war?

4—If the United States is to participate in foreign wars as they arise, should the United States by itself determine which nation is the aggressor or the guilty party or should it be guided by a majority vote of a league or party of foreign nations?

5—Do you think the United States can best show its aversion to war by trying to repress warring nations or by keeping entirely free from war itself and from the wars of others?

6—If the United States is to participate in foreign wars which side should we take in the Spanish conflict, the Fascists or the Communist side?

7—If the United States is a democracy in which the will of the people rules, do you or do you not think that the very vital question of participating in any foreign war could best be decided by a referendum vote of the people?

The questions were wired with instructions to the telegraph companies to forward it the Senator or Congressman is within the territorial boundaries of the United States.

While I believe the United States government should maintain its historical policy of not intervening in wars of foreign nations, I am with the President on his stand that there should be an affirmative peace policy with America a party of passive neutrality.

I believe that this country should take any [illegible] steps to prevent aggression from becoming bolder by the inaction of the American people. I do not believe, however, that the United States should participate in the Spanish civil war or in the Japanese problem and I do not believe this country should in any event, participate in the settlement of international policy.

Boston City Hospital Interne Saves Child

HEARSARGE, N. H., Oct. 25—Flames which destroyed Sunny Meade Inn here today took the lives of two Massachusetts women, one the owner and the other an Arlington resident.

Miss Alice Kerrigan, 25, of 19 Boulevard road, Arlington, was trapped in a bedchamber at the rear of the resort. Burning was fatal to her.

Miss Alice Duffy, 25, of Dorchester, Mass., died in the Memorial Hospital, North Conway, from injuries suffered when she leaped from a window.

Her sister, Miss Theresa Duffy, suffered burns but did not require special treatment.

A son of the inn, which was the only one of its kind in the White Mountains, was rescued by Dr. Kenneth Chapin, who was a week-end guest at the inn. Chapin, a graduate of Boston City Hospital, is an interne at that institution.

The fire started in the early morning hours. Many guests were awakened by the smoke and flames. Most of them escaped in their night clothing without time or thought for anything else.

The inn opened for the season during mid-June and early fall was counted on to add $20,000 to the year's income.

Miss Kerrigan had been employed at the inn as bookkeeper and cashier for the past 3 years, working at Sunny Meade during the winter months. She lived with friends at Arlington as well as her home.

She was a graduate of Arlington High School and Simmons College.

Kennedy Moves To Block Ship Sit-Strikes

Maritime Commission Head Calls the Algic Case "Disgrace"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (INS)—Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Maritime Commission, is preparing recommendations that Congress enact immediate legislation to stop sit-down strikes and mutinies and restore discipline on American merchant vessels, it was learned today.

Keenly incensed over the case of the S. S. Algic, 14 members of the crew of which were arrested in Baltimore on conspiracy and theft charges, Kennedy is ready with proposals for remedial legislation.

HIS PROPOSALS

1. The Maritime Commission be given immediate authority over labor disputes concerning crews of merchant vessels.

2. A board be set up if necessary, to adjudicate these differences. This body would be similar to the railway mediation board.

Kennedy, it was stated tonight, is determined that the Algic case shall not be repeated. He has been informed by the American Merchant Marine and Navy that the Algic crew was not typical of the men who usually sail the ships.

Dorchester Mother Wins Supreme Court Practice

Jeanne S. P. Brody, 28, of Boston, who recently became the third woman lawyer from Massachusetts ever to be given the right to plead cases before the United States Supreme Court, today revealed her plans for the future.

Miss Brody, who in private life is Mrs. Edward L. Weinberg of Forest street, Dorchester, is the youngest ever to have attained that distinction.

"I am going to continue in private practice," she said today. "And I expect to devote myself largely to probate or criminal law. Those fields are, so far apart, but we've never had an outstanding woman criminal lawyer, and perhaps some day we shall be.

"When I was a little girl I was in an accident and a woman lawyer handled my case. She was brilliant and sure of herself and I determined to follow in her footsteps."

Miss Brody has been married three years and has a one-year-old son, Stephen Edward Weinberg.

"Of course, I'm proud," she admits, "it was thrilling in the court at Washington, standing before those nine great men. It was thrilling when I came back and the members of the Massachusetts Association of Women Lawyers honored me."

Treat Colds This PROVED Way

WHY experiments? Vicks VapoRub has been doubly proved for you . . . proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind; further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (See full details in each VapoRub package.)

Only Vicks gives you such proof.

VapoRub is the direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no risk of stomach upsets. Simply massage it on the throat, chest, and back (as illustrated).

Relief starts almost at once. You begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub starts working direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors—released by the warmth of the body—are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break local congestion.

Repeat treatment at bedtime. After restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working, hour after hour. Often by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Hunter Refutes Nazi Publicity Charges

State Probers Given Books on Industrial Defense Group

Edward H. Hunter, executive secretary of the Industrial Defense Association, Inc., today denied charges that he was the principal source of Nazi propaganda in Massachusetts when he appeared before the special legislative committee investigating subversive activities in the state.

Hunter, an Attleboro resident, was the first witness before the committee today as public hearings were resumed in the Gardner Auditorium, State House.

The witness testified that his organization was formed "to study the principles of American Government and to combat subversive influences."

The association is financed by contributions from persons who are sympathetic with its aims, Hunter said. He refused to name the members of the organization.

Hunter said the association was not incorporated. He also admitted that he was not a naturalized citizen of the United States. He was born in Canada in 1894 and declared his intention of becoming a citizen in 1926. He explained that he delayed taking the final steps to become a citizen because he was a "free lance" and therefore considered that he was not entitled to vote.

Hunter said the association was organized in 1935 and that it had a membership of 12 persons except at certain times.

Members of the legislative committee refused to comment today on the statement made in Boston by Congressman Vito Marcantonio of New York that the Dies committee provided "cover for wealthy anti-Semites and anti-Catholics" and that it was trying to emulate the Massachusetts legislative committee. Marcantonio is president of the International Labor Defense.

Lindy Baby Story Revived Abroad

LONDON, Oct. 25 (INS)—A Polish newspaper has revived the story that Charles Lindbergh, Jr., kidnaped and murdered baby son of the famous aviator, is alive and being cared for by a Belgian family.

The News Chronicle said today in a dispatch from Brussels.

Commenting on the papers reclamation, the London newspaper said its own inquiries revealed that the child reported to be the Lindbergh baby was found in 1935 to have been the son of a wealthy Belgian.

During the investigation of the Hauptmann case, four years ago, a former convict, Isidore Fisch, declared that the child in question was German Jew abandoned by its mother and passed in the care of relatives and friends, according to the News Chronicle.

EDWIN C. HILL, noted writer and radio commentator, writes "Human Side of the News" every day in the Boston American.

7-Year Record Pack for Santa

Toy Makers Say 230 Millions to Be Spent

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Santa Claus will tote his heaviest pack in seven years this Christmas.

So said toy manufacturers who gave a "preview" of their wares today at a Fifth Avenue shop. They estimated $230,000,000 would be spent for toys this year, 10 percent more than last season.

For little girls there were doll houses with electric elevators and dolls that could sip water and cry like real babies.

For boys there were crime detection sets and a science set able to magnify the molecular expansions of lemon juice or soda pop to full colors.

Despite rumbling of war abroad, less than one percent of the toys were military in character. A few units were based on soldiers handcraft or games. But they had to be authentic.

Coughlin Gives Up Writings

DETROIT, Oct. 25 (AP)—Rev. Charles E. Coughlin will write no more articles for the weekly publication "Social Justice," its newly appointed editor, Walter Baerteschi, of Toledo said today, until "it is determined whether he can speak his own minds or not."

Baerteschi, Father Coughlin's chief lieutenant in the National Union for Social Justice, announced his appointment to the editorship of the publication today.

At the same time, he announced formation of an organization, to be known as the Committee of One Million Christians, which will work to bring about Father Coughlin's return to the radio.

The Royal Oak priest recently cancelled a scheduled series of radio addresses after the Most Rev. Edward Mooney, archbishop of Detroit, said the radio addresses would have to be submitted to him in advance for approval.

Hoover in Hub Tomorrow

State Republican leaders headed by Representative Christian Herter today made plans to receive former President Herbert Hoover when he arrives in Boston tomorrow.

Hoover is to be a guest of honor at a dinner sponsored by the Republican Club of Massachusetts to be held tomorrow night at Mechanics Hall.

In his capacity as head of the Boys Club of America, Hoover met Connecticut G. O. P. leaders yesterday in Greenwich at the home of Samuel F. Pryor, Jr., national committeeman.

"The crisis at the present time is too great to sit by without affirmative action," Hoover declared. "The national crusade to save the American people from the New Deal must be fought on national rather than local issues."

He reiterated his plea for a national convention.

Federated Garden Clubs Plan Annual Meeting Thursday

By BETTY ALDEN

JACK FROST is often referred to as the artist who sketches beautiful icy designs on window panes . . . but seldom as a bookkeeper or comptroller . . . Yet, just as the comptroller of a business organization determines the limits of a fiscal business year, John (Chilly Fingers) Frost determines the fiscal year for the garden lovers . . . It is only a very few days after Jack turns his eyes upon gardens and foliage and fixes them with his icy stare, that the garden lovers' year comes to an end . . . To be sure, there are a few bulbs to be put in safe keeping for the winter, and a few beds to be banked with leaves . . . but for the most part, there is a lull in garden activities until winter, when plans for spring planting begin to be considered, and groups of garden lovers make pilgrimages to tropical climes to get new ideas and find new types of plants . . .

PRISCILLA LITTLE

Each year, during this late autumn lull in horticultural activities, the Federated Garden Club members of Massachusetts hold their regular annual meeting. This year it is to be an all-day affair Thursday, October 28, at the Copley Plaza . . . Mrs. J. Sydney Stone of Wayland, a leading figure in suburban garden clubs, is helping to arrange the meeting so that everyone interested will keep the date open . . . and Mrs. Sumner Smith of Lincoln and Mrs. Frank A. Day, Jr., of Newton, are in charge of the meeting . . . There will be keen competition among the garden clubs of Greater Boston for the most artistically decorated luncheon table . . . Miss Eleanor Jones and Miss Helen Gould will be the judges . . .

• • •

Echoes of a busy week-end . . . Peggy Wordsworth Scott and her husband, Robert Scott, Jr., came in from New York to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wordsworth of Chestnut street, who are still at their country home in Pembroke . . . The Scotts were in the throng of rain drenched rooters at the Harvard-Dartmouth game . . . Incidentally, the rain may have drenched the bones, but certainly not the spirits of the winning Dartmouth warriors and their followers, who carried their victory celebrations far into the night . . .

Former Dartmouth Athletes Entertain

AT THE BALINESE Room of the Somerset last Lyons, Ted Learned and Dave Perry, former Dartmouth athletes, had a large dinner party with their wives and a dozen or so other young married friends . . . The evening started with a cocktail party at the Learneds' home after the game . . . and among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Gould Cook, the latter most attractive in black velvet with red embroidery on the sleeves, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Milliken in dark blue velvet . . . and Mrs. Julian Fraser and Mrs. Philip N. Moore, hosts of the Learneds and Mr. and Mrs. Don and Morse of Wellesley Hill . . .

Mrs. Frederick Ames and her escort, Commander Joseph Lyons of Washington, D. C., dashed in the Balinese Room after the theater and others there were Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Howes, Jr., Mary Morgan, the Paul Kirks and Dick Sprague with Alice Morrison . . . Friday evening the same popular dancing spot was crowded with Harvardmen confident that their team would score a victory in the Stadium . . . Mary Hastings and Hollis Seavey were in a party with the Wallis Pierces, two enormous redheads and a blond, Mrs. Pierce's gown of black velvet with a gold lame and white brocaded gown . . . Mrs. Jack Berry, who looked charming in a pale blue slipper satin gown made on old fashioned lines, chatted with Mary to interest her in a group of past debs she is lining up to serve on the entertainment committee at the Tavern Club, which opens for the season on Thursday evening . . . Mr. and Mrs. William Faversham, Jr., came in from Concord to have a jolly "night before" party and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Jackson had a delightful tete-a-tete with Eleanor Phelps, who plays the leading lady in Maurice Evans' production of "Richard II" . . .

The week-end also brought news of a number of prominent engagements, including that of Lucy Lee Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lee of Wellesley, who will be married in January . . . Lucy is to become the bride of Joseph N. White '33 in January . . . Her future bridegroom is the son of Joseph N. White, Jr., of Winchendon, a graduate of Yale with the class of 1906 and a brother of Fred Wilder White, and the Misses Rebecca, Eunice and Priscilla White . . .

Priscilla Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Little of Cambridge, has just become engaged to Frederic A. Webster, also of Cambridge, son of Kenneth Grant Webster of Milton . . . The bride-to-be made her debut last winter, after attending the Winsor School, and she is now a freshman at Bryn Mawr, where she is chairman of her class . . . Mr. Webster graduated from Harvard in 1925 and is at present studying at the Harvard Medical School . . . No plans have been made for their wedding . . .

Engagement Announced

LAWRENCE TERRY, assistant headmaster at Noble and Greenough School in Dedham, was not only the party of the second part in an engagement announcement this week-end, but was also an usher at the wedding of his good friend, Lieut. Hubert Chanler, to Gertrude B. Laughlin, which took place in Washington, D. C. Saturday afternoon . . .

Mr. Terry's fiancee, Miss Katharine Johnson of Annapolis, Md., took advantage of his visit to Annapolis and Washington to acquaint their friends with the news of their approaching marriage . . . scheduled for some time this winter, or early spring . . . Mr. Terry's bride-to-be is the daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Edward D. Johnson . . . she was graduated last June from Vassar after studying at the Sorbonne during her junior year . . .

Mr. Terry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Terry of Short Hills, N. J. . . . He graduated from Harvard in 1922 and belongs to a number of exclusive clubs including Phoenix, A. D. and the Tavern Club . . .

Moist Look of Youth

SYLVIA SIDNEY takes painstaking care of her fragile, lovely skin; the sort of skin which thrives on balms and unguents that are applied in liquid form . . . a method that imparts the delicately moist bloom of a young girl to the complexion.

Rare Balms in All-Liquid Facial Work Wonders

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S OFTEN such a never-ending search for the exactly right type of beauty aid for you that we start dithering immediately we come across what seems like a startling, marvelously thought-out campaign against wrinkles and all the other little tell-tale lines!

If yours is one of those dry skins that survives without notice . . . and if you're aged you say this week that you've even gone and canceled your seat for Murder on the Mat . . . look into this all-liquid-emulsion campaign that does wondrous things.

Many creams—not all—but we might be safe in saying most of them—use heavy solidifying wax for the reason except that it makes a base or carrier for the valuable oils which themselves gild the pain with youth.

Since the ungents and balms which bring beauty are orginally in a semi-liquid form, a complete and thorough routine for nourishing the complexion to a flawless, moist and clear state has been brought out all in liquid form!

Several hexagonal crystal bottles contain the whole business. There is a Facial Bath, a Cleansing Lotion, a Re-Texture Balm—two versions of each item. If yours is an oily or normal skin you use the first, which is the group named. For highly sensitive, dry skin—and I'm 2 to each name, for that is how the dry-skin liquid facial is indicated.

* * *

Lines and wrinkles ravage the delicate, dry skin . . . for that reason the all-liquid emulsions No. 2 seem heavenscent. There's Vitamin-F generously represented in them, as well as rare Hormones and balms.

Give your skin the "facial bath," which consists of steams and finishes . . . though you may use this rich liquid soap for the first and third purposes. If your skin has gone using a bit on its wrinkle-fattening pursuit, you must include the fortifying care with the re-texture balm.

Just a few drops of facial bath massaged into the skin moisturizes and nourishes the tissue, leaving your face feeling delightfully clean and soft as an infant's.

You mayn't be approaching your thirties . . . but since at any age a skin is apt to need a tonic-tail to flush pores and set it aglow . . . the toning lotion, clear white and mildly scented, should be used after cleansing and before a new make-up. It's applied with a small cotton pad first wrung out in cold water, and smoothed on with upward, winging strokes.

Fingertips dipped in the liquid foundation, smooth a thin, satiny film all over your face and neck . . . powder will cling nicely, as never before.

For information on the all-liquid facial with Vitamin-F that will take care of every beauty need of a dry, sensitive skin (they are around a dollar for each generous bottle), phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4561 weekdays until five, or write her at the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It's a Simple Preparation

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Note how a show of strength encouraged North, in the hand below, to make a strong bid, to suggest slam possibilities.

South, dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 NT	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

When South heard his partner's jump raise he naturally accepted the mild slam invitation. The four-five notrump convention quickly accounted for all the aces and South lost no time in bidding the small slam.

West opened the queen of hearts and South won with the ace. Declarer had no difficulty in seeing that only in clubs was it possible to lose more than one trick. Apparently the contract could be made by two finesses in clubs, if only one of them should be successful.

But South, being a careful player, went a step farther and played to insure the contract, even if East held both the king and queen of clubs.

His first step was to draw three rounds of trumps. Next, declarer cash all of the diamonds, discarding two clubs from dummy. Now South could afford to lead the ten of clubs and let it ride around to East's queen.

East had only clubs and hearts left. A club return would go up to dummy's major tenace, a heart return would enable declarer to cross to dummy in one suit while discarding a club from the other.

Note that declarer would have lost his contract had he taken the first club finesse before stripping spades and diamonds from the East-West hands. East would have won with the queen of clubs and exited with a trump, or a diamond, and then South would have had no play for his slam, since the other club finesse was bound to lose.

MARTHA TELLS YOU TO SERVE APPLES ON STICKS AT YOUR HALLOWEEN PARTY

From Martha Lee's Monday morning broadcast over station WMEX.

EVERYONE must be planning a Halloween party, if we are to judge by the number of requests for menu suggestions, decorations and games coming into the office.

Suppose we start with a recipe for those colorful, seasonable sweets, which really won't harm the youngsters—homemade Apples on Sticks.

A request has come in from one of the regular readers of this column for a dependable recipe for making these special dainties at home. This particular mother wants to use Apples on Sticks as edible favors for the children's party. Perhaps others would appreciate knowing how they are made.

APPLE ON A STICK

2 cups granulated sugar
⅓ cup white corn syrup
¾ cup water
Red coloring
½ teaspoon cinnamon flavoring
12 red apples
12 wooden skewers

Cook granulated sugar, corn syrup and water in a small saucepan, stirring until a temperature of 300 degrees F. is reached or until syrup is brittle when tested in cold water.

During the cooking, any sugar crystals thrown on the sides of the pan should be washed down with a wet cloth wrapped around the tines of a fork.

Remove the syrup from the heat, and set at once over hot water. Add coloring and flavoring and mix well. Insert the skewers, which can be purchased from the butcher, in the blossom end of the clean apples. Hold each apple by the skewer and plunge into the hot syrup. Drag it out quickly and twirl it until the syrup is spread smoothly over the apple.

Place with the skewer end down in a cake pan, which has been placed over a large bowl, so that the apple does not touch anything while hardening. These apples should be made the day they are to be used. This recipe makes 12. Another method omits cinnamon flavoring.

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and All Other Rights Reserved.)

We met up with a fellow last week who looked like Jimmy Swinnerton, the cartoonist, but who turned out to be a chap named Lacava. Gregory Lacava, a motion picture director in Hollywood.

Damon Runyon

Our personal contacts with the members of the motion picture colony have been few, and somewhat skeptical, about this Lacava fellow, but we were the first director we ever had a chance to talk with more than five minutes.

We had an idea that these movie directors were high and mighty guys and that would not get close enough to one of them to hand him a cigar unless we had developed that this Lacava is just folks. And a football nut to boot.

When we got down to talking on the motion picture business he quickly changed the subject to football. Indeed, he was not at all shifty on the matter of the movies that pictures that we commenced to suspect either that he was not known anything about them, or that there was something sinister behind that he wasn't going to reveal.

To tell the truth, we were not interested to any great extent in the Lacava, until some one tipped us that he is the fellow who directed the picture that aroused cash customers of the movies in New York from suffering another shivering, icy week.

FIGURED IT OUT

It is a picture called "Stage Door," and when we revolted that this Lacava was the man who made off-hand of Miss Katharine Hepburn change to purest ice, we rose me that we were in the presence of genius.

If anybody had told us up to the moment we saw "Stage Door" that the time would come when we would cease muttering malevolently under our breath the instant Miss Katharine Hepburn appeared on the screen and began nassing at us and that our malevolence would be transformed into the great human we would have said that person was daffy.

We figured that this Lacava is a supermind and began looking up to him accordingly. Then when Groucho got off a few well chosen words on the cinema and said that in his opinion Mr. Bill Faulk is the greatest comedian alive and may be the greatest that ever lived, we knew that this Lacava is not only a genius and a supermind but a mind to a conference. Mr. Bill Faulk, in our favorite man on the screen or stage.

We said in substance there, "Stage Door" is taken from the stage play of that name this which was written by G. S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber, and Miss Edna Ferber and are here better than Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn and Hamlet combined, and the screen version is more than the stage "Stage Door" which was fine. But some of the critics resented that the actors had thrown the stage's rules and forms and an entirely new take and seemed to think that the screen improved on what the stage was for in the first.

ORIGINAL IDEA HELPED

Now we often hear it said of pictures taken from plays and novels and short stories that the screen has dispensed with the original story and made up a new plot and found that is often quite true.

We are pretty sure that this Lacava would not claim that there would have been a screen "Stage Door" if not for the fundamental ideas in the stage "Stage Door," because this Lacava seems to be an exceedingly sensible man with none of the delusions of grandeur that we had been led to expect of movie directors.

He has made what is sure to be rated as one of the ten best pictures of the year, and he probably thinks Mr. Kauffmann lucky get all those in and not in as a precautionary and Miss Ferber were entitled to in thinking up a play like "Stage Door." In the first instance, however, much the same thing could be improved the story for his purposes.

MADE ANOTHER FILM

This Lacava made another picture called "My Man Godfrey" that turned all the producers in Hollywood into what Mr. Runyon terms "rapt rats," a spell which is always what happens when a picture of a certain type is a knockout and which is one of the reasons why in most customers take it on the whimsers on often. The copies rarely come up to the originals.

He makes one picture a year and says he has to have a certain amount of what he calls "news value" in a story, which he clarified only slightly by saying the play "Stage Door" and the authors Mr. Kauffmann and Miss Ferber and the screen actresses, Miss Ginger Rogers and Miss Katharine Hepburn, had "news value."

And saying that, this Lacava headed for a football game at New Haven, and we never did get to see him what he did to Miss Katharine Hepburn that changed her from a moment of silent prayer in our life to a terrific hate.

Ex-Boxer Daley Robbed of $97

Boarding a milk wagon in downtown Lynn, two bandits today bound and gagged the driver, Thomas Daley, ex-boxer, known to the prize ring as "Tuxedo Tommy Daley," and robbed him of $97.

Then, throwing their victim into the back of the wagon, the men whipped the horse and ran off on foot.

The horse traveled about a half mile from the starting place, Chase and Baker street, before coming to a stop in Franklin street. Daley told of the robbers after passersby had found and released him.

He said that when the men climbed onto the wagon, one of them showed a hard object against his back and snapped:

"Keep your trap shut. Give us your dough."

When he protested he had only some change with him, he said, the men called him a liar, tied his hands and feet and taped his mouth.

Reading from left to right, the little ladies are Pam Gallagher, daughter of the famous "Skeets," Erin Considine, Joan Burkett and Nanette Pantages, daughter of Rodney Pantages.

Bartolini Retrial Motions Heard

Four motions for a new trial in the case of Oscar V. Bartolini, convicted of the slaying of Mrs. Grayce Asquith Weymouth "merry widow," were argued today in Superior Court at Dedham.

The arguments today by George R. Lourie, chief of counsel for Bartolini, were heard by Judge George T. Leary and were opposed by Assistant District Attorney George W. Arbuckle.

New 'Sky Isle' Ascension Due

Strange Life to Be Sought on Plateau

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (INS)—Wotan's Throne, unexplored Grand Canyon plateau, will be ascended soon by scientists in a spectacular search for strange living things atop another "island in the sky," it was learned today.

Authority for news of the new scientific foray was Dr. Harold Anthony, curator of mammals at the Natural History Museum and leader of the expedition which explored Shiva Temple, first Grand Canyon "sky island" ascended for research.

Like Shiva Temple, Wotan's Throne is on the north rim of the Grand. It is believed Dr. Anthony said, that any life found on either of the high plateaus lived and developed there during at least 20,000 years of complete isolation from the rest of the world.

"We found some very interesting things on the Temple," Dr. Anthony said. "We may find that the animals on Wotan's Throne are in some respects different from those on the Shiva Temple and life in the lower regions."

State Job Fraud Charge Probed

Paul C. Ryan, secretary to Governor Hurley, today opened an investigation of charges by an Allston man that he had paid $50 to a former employe of the governor's office during the Ely administration to obtain a job as a civil engineer in the State Public Works Department.

Secretary Ryan today stated that Public Service Commissioner Frank H. Hayes has been asked to report on the matter. Hayes is a former secretary to Governor William F. Cashman and is now on the commission by appointment of Governor Hurley.

The man has stated that he was told by the former employe that $50 was needed for the job and that Lester Leach, also a former secretary to Governor Cashman, had obtained his position for $100.

AUSTEN LAKE

Boston's Football Crowds Show They Can Take Punishment

WITH ALL THE CATERING TO THE COMFORT of the sport public in recent years it seems strange that nobody has yet managed a way to keep the rain from blowing down people's necks. I think you will agree that Saturday was less adapted to the college football spectacle than the kind of a day for relaxing in a warm room with something in a glass.

AUSTEN LAKE

Before George P. Marshall became peeved with Boston for not paying sufficiently to watch his professional football games, he used to dream gorgeous dreams of raising a stadium with a vast glass dome overhead which could be folded back in bright weather and made snug and rain tight in foul weather. He went so far as to hire an architect to draw an imaginative watercolor sketch of his creation which he dreamed as a profitable and all-embracing sport center.

The People Glory in Martyrdom

MOSTLY MR. MARSHALL WOULD BUILD HIS arenas on the top of some table in the back room of such refreshment spots as the Ritz Roof or the Club Mayfair along toward the early hours of the morning. He would sketch beautiful turrets for private observation parties, escalator ramps to haul up the customers painlessly, nests of underground ball rooms for taxi dancing and automat bars where one could obtain favorite doseages by inserting coins in a slot.

It was an effortless form of creation in which Mr. Marshall would moisten his finger in a puddle left by his stein or seidel and draw until his stadium was complete, at which point a waiter would always come along and with one ruthless swipe of his bar rag, wipe it out again.

"Well," Mr. Marshall would say, "that gives you a crude idea which needs some elaboration before we break ground."

The veterans are quick to defend their sufferings as having been more magnificent torture than any rival sufferings, and the survivors of the Dartmouth-Princeton snow storm will tell how they struggled through the drifts, taking stimulants as they bounced from one snowbank to another until they reached the railhead. The relicts of the Great Zero day between B. C. and H. C. at Worcester will tell how they froze their joints in biting-down attitudes and had to walk for a week with a perpetual crouch and while chattering their teeth clear down to the gums.

The Press Watched in Comfort

IT SNOWED, SLEETED AND HAILED SATURDAY DURING the Navy-Notre Dame game at South Bend, where the Midshipmen stood in orderly, unslickered ranks and took it as patiently as the West Pointers stood and took it against Harvard last fall. Some folks along the Great Lakes were frozen stiff. In the East they were drowned. And the only people who watched in comfort were those in the press galleries up on the rims of the stadium where shelter and light had been installed and the college authorities furnished cans of coffee and baskets of crullers to the ink-stained slaves as they sat at their shelves.

I think that was the argument which clinched shelter and light for the writers. The colleges did not wish to exasperate the customers into demanding equal rights on shelter and light.

Brown Steals Week-End Honors

By MURRAY ARAMER

But the week-end, top glory must go to Brown . . . here is a club that has been tossed around for years without coming close to a major victory . . . yet last Saturday it pulled the greatest upset of the day knocking over a stout Columbia team . . . and gentleman with a lot of the sporting instinct wishing to wager a bob or two could have had any odds named . . . it is a saw boost to a bunch of kids who could come from a 45 to 0 licking at the hands of Dartmouth and turn in this achievement . . . A few of the boys wish they could have been in New York Saturday night and heard Ivy Little rant . . .

The two biggest upsets using Yale's seahawk were turned in by Lafayette and Georgetown . . . Lafayette destroyed Navy, 14 to 7, and a Georgetown team which showed nothing against Holy Cross, came up and fired Fordham, the Cats were never inside . . . and Syracuse! . . . The mighty Orangemen of Coach Mike Nyikos . . . Coming back to our own backyard we find that we still have three undefeated and untied major college elevens left in New England. Yale, Dartmouth and Holy Cross. Yale and Dartmouth tangle Saturday, which will reduce the list at least one. The barrel of course.

Dartmouth Enjoys Football Again As Blaik Drops Precision Plays

Hutchinson-Frank Duel Highlight This Week

By BILL GRIMES

Meet Bill Hutchinson, sensational Dartmouth fullback, who performs at the Stadium next week. He scored all three Dartmouth touchdowns against Yale last year and earned himself a niche in the Indians' Hall of Fame by his mighty efforts.

Dartmouth vs. Yale Hutchinson's Class | Frank Is Tops Casey Gets Test

By JACK CONWAY

DARTMOUTH WILL once more be faced by the jinx of the Yale Bowl when they invade New Haven on Saturday.

MR. BOSTON

The Big Green plays one kind of a game when it opposes Harvard at the Stadium, and another when it takes on Yale at New Haven.

Bill Hutchinson, Dartmouth's great sophomore back, isn't one of those young men who worries about traditions and such things and is likely to have a great deal of fun on Saturday making huge gains through Yale's line.

Frank of Yale is one of the greatest college backs in the country. He is once more All-America timber, and will try to prove that Hutchinson is just another ball carrier.

Dick Harlow of Harvard paid a glowing tribute to Frank following the Harvard-Yale game of last year.

"Our scouts had mapped out for us before the game every move Frank would make," said Harlow. "The great Yale back did what we expected him to do, and yet we couldn't stop him."

Frank scored Yale's only touchdown against an improved Cornell team last Saturday. He is now getting ready to help beat Dartmouth.

Harvard has a better football team than showed against Dartmouth. The Crimson has perfected a brilliant passing game and uses numerous spinners and wide open formations. These plays were not adapted to the sloppy playing field at Saturday.

If Harvard has a defensive game against Princeton on Saturday that is anywhere near what it did against Dartmouth

O'Neil Says Capital Is On Strike

Fear Seen Preventing Normal Investment In Enterprises

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

In recent weeks there has been much criticism of conditions, both political and economic, and very little advice as to what should be done. Accordingly it is a real pleasure to review the comments of W. O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber Company, because he not only notes causes, but makes sound remedial suggestions.

Mr. O'Neil feels that strikes to capital both large and small are the reason for present uncertain and unsatisfactory conditions. The large capitalist is the silent investor who is afraid to put his money on the market; profits would be little to-day who has stayed away from Street and Wall Street because he will not build that factory, equip that store, distribute that product, employ that labor and extend that service in the world-wide field of business which is his natural opportunity. Nor will he build that factory, equip that store, distribute that product, employ that labor and extend that service in the world-wide field of business which is his natural opportunity. Nor will he build that factory, equip that store, distribute that product, employ that labor and extend that service in the world-wide field of business which is his natural opportunity.

* * *

A sensible stock taking is called for by Mr. O'Neil in order to locate the causes of the strike as well as to take the steps leading to its eradication. The first thing he suggests is the restoration of the investing public's confidence. This he thinks, may be accomplished if the government will not insist that a corporation which is in debt, without sufficient capital to operate safely otherwise, must pay out all of its earnings in dividends. Second, he suggests that it should be made possible for banks to lend money to corporations with the knowledge that as money is earned the indebtedness will be reduced and that all earnings need not be paid out in dividends. Finally he points to the need of changing the capital gains tax so that if a person loses money one year and makes a profit the next he can at least deduct his losses for a few years.

Alternative to Wage, Hours Legislation

Business Plan to Give Flexibility to Needy Employer

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—A business alternative to the proposed wages and hours legislation which will again come up before Congress at the special session called for November 15 has been formulated.

This suggestion is designed to give the flexibility which the employer thinks he needs and the protection that maximization advocates desire.

The plan is to base employment and wages on a basic six-hour week with the understanding that in prosperous periods the work week would be extended as necessary with time and a half payment for overtime in excess of 35 hours. On this basis the plant or industry could be flexibly extended to 45 hours or even 48 hours a week.

A system has been suggested that in periods of expanding operations the employer would be permitted to work overtime and a half rate for overtime in his expanded workers or adding additional workers. It is argued that the flexible week would enable manufacturers to adjust their production to demand without losing the interest of their employees.

Instead of being obliged to stop in the 35 hour week when normal demand is supposedly satisfied, the employer would be free to go ahead with his expansion program.

The plan is designed to meet the objection that the present wage and hour legislation would freeze the economic system at the present level. Under the proposed plan, employers can temporarily profit from their ability to distribute profits as they did during the depression.

However, the present federal legislation has been criticized on the ground that it would work to the disadvantage of depressed employers who would be unable to obtain capital funds.

Irrespective of these attitudes toward the proposed legislation, some regular employers think that the proposed legislation will have a definite effect on business in general in the face of the threatened recession.

On the other hand, some employers feel that if the proposed farm legislation helps to establish a balanced economy, there will be a rise in the total volume of business and employment. Like the N. R. A. the wages and hours formula will be more readily regarded legislation than as a business expanding stimulant.

Free Press Necessary In Free Country

THE CONCERN of newspaper people for freedom of the press is a subject in which THE PEOPLE AT LARGE have a GREAT INTEREST.

There is much in the present trend of public thinking to emphasize the necessity of impressing upon the people that freedom of the press is not freedom FOR NEWSPAPER PEOPLE.

The rights of free opinion and uncontrolled news are the most necessary of PUBLIC RIGHTS.

Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, spoke intelligently on this subject in his recent Don Mellett memorial lecture.

He said there must be recognition of the fact that "the average citizen thinks that freedom of the press is merely a privilege editors seek for their own profitable enjoyment."

And he expressed the fear that the average citizen "thinks of the right of freedom of the press as a right that journalists are forever worrying about and of which, in his opinion, they already have too much."

While we do not share the belief that such an opinion can properly be attributed to "average people," unquestionably there is enough of a trend toward such belief to constitute a definite PUBLIC DANGER.

IF THE people are to retain democracy, they must understand they must also retain mediums of opinion and news to which, not newspaper makers, but THE PEOPLE THEMSELVES must always have free and unchallenged access.

As Mr. Patterson says:

"The institutions of democracy rest upon a system which opens and keeps open a channel for human expression, a channel through which flows from the center of government the stream of information which makes it possible for democratic organization to function over the far-flung territory of a nation."

The great truth which America must never obscure—and which the dictatorships abroad prove—is that denial of a free voice to the press is the first step that will be taken in any future DENIAL OF FREEDOM TO THE PEOPLE.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK Oct. 25. Diary: A note from Thora Sauter Winston, she is back from a Hollywood sojourn for the winter. Mrs. Winston, Detroit belle of a Michigan metropolis of 3000 souls, is Grand Rapids that's a mighty little New York. And Thora Shawell sends a snapshot of her cropheaded niece. Here's hoping.

O. O. McIntyre

Talking to Harry Hansen, literary editor of the Chicago Daily News, about a magazine piece and our days on a newspaper which I worked for, were a mirthful and tearful choice. Elsie DeWolfe is always making her mark and she's off to Europe and shopping parties for Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, the star's mother-in-law, among a few others.

Alice and Marie Hoey, who are indebted high to our affections, are thrilling audiences in Houston and Texas and they are to be on Major Bowes' radio hour and we have been clamoring for the Misses Hoey's appearance for the Major Bowes Parties, one of the finest floor shows in town. To bed around 2 a. m.

The membership of a country club near Fort Washington had the privilege of seeing the golden Mrs. Morgenthau in action. Mrs. Morgenthau is a golf enthusiast and has been a frequent visitor to the Fort Washington links. On her last visit she was accompanied by a group of women friends. In the friendly game to which a spectator by the golf enthusiasts was admitted, the wife of the Secretary of the Treasury was the star performer. She was in the best form of her golfing career. Her drives were long and true and her putting was deadly. Mrs. Morgenthau was the recipient of many compliments from the spectator.

Here's Kenneth Murray of the tenement paradise in an article in the Saturday Evening Post.

The Kid's are not as much as used to be, but they still go for each other with table knives, forks and spoons. They throw things and cry and then kiss a few minutes later.

Young Mrs. Ernest Hemingway, the Kitchen and George Raft are three that make a fuss for the exaggerated jealousy category, as reported in the Murray piece. Hemingway is married to Pauline Pfeiffer, Vogue magazine fashion editor.

Personal impression, for the modern artist whose appreciation must come after his death: Ernest Hemingway.

Stories in metropolitan dress change in the same way as feminine fashions.

Fifteen years ago there was a pronounced vogue for the white Russian wolf hound, standard off which grew fearful fights and dog stealing. Then a silver wash in the late afternoon avenue promenade. Then the show horse, and the Airedale craze, said to have been started by Leonore Ulric during the top dog days.

The Rudy Vallee-Lois Wilson romance is the current chatter. Miss Wilson de Carnegie and Vallee are said to be enamored with the all American dog that he appeared with in the movie "Sweetheart" was a Hollywood favorite and famous for the time of his death.

Then there was a wire haired vogue too, and the Airedale had its day along with the popularity of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor's pets. But today the most popular dog is judged by sales in the fashionable avenues and the dachshund is the accredited pet, particularly during the war, due to German origins, and was rarely seen on the streets. Now it's smuggling Yorkies in the Yorkville hinterlands.

One of the assets of the five-block dachshund is its adaptability to apartment living.

Few comedians so elevated Broadway as that of Jack Benny. Here is a principal recipe after a running start that had at an early age landed him among headliners. The Benny method is one of the hottest months he filled a night club with the typical Broadway crowd with his wise cracks and funny sayings in the brassy modern tempo.

Arthur Brisbane once told several fellow columnists over a lunch that he disliked to write about the hottest months, he filled a night club with the typical Broadway crowd with his wise cracks and funny sayings in the brassy modern tempo.

Mary, a reader will agree with you. News it admit that such care does seem inconsistent. Yet I believe she is right. You're wrong in saying. There is only one reason for giving such service.

THE REAL REASON

There is another reason—vitally important—and that is OUR AMERICAN STANDARD OF DECENCY.

We are not serving the criminal when we minister to his ills.

WE ARE SERVING OUR OWN SELF-RESPECT. There is no sentimentality about such service. WE ARE SIMPLY PROVING THAT WE ARE MORE HUMANE THAN THE SAVAGES WHO WOULD HAVE TORTURED HIM OR LEFT HIM TO SLOW AGONIZING DEATH.

And there is another element in such service. VICIOUS AS THE CRIMINAL MAY BE, NINE TIMES OUT OF TEN HE IS THE RESULT OF HIS OWN NEGLIGENCE STUPIDITY AND INHUMANITY.

Yes, medical services comes high. BUT CIVILIZATION IS WORTH ANY PRICE.

SHE CAN'T AGREE

Another bomb—Mrs. Roosevelt hurled it when she said "WIVES SHOULD HAVE SALARIES."

Ever since Yuting America's sweethearts and wives have been arguing pro and con. Here's young Mrs. T. L. Bailey of Hollywood, Cal. with a vehement "NO!" She says:

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"I hope my husband never hears of Mrs. Roosevelt's suggestion. If I were paid a salary, I fear our whole relationship would be changed. I'd be expected to pay half the rent, gasoline and grocery bills—then provide my own clothes if any.

"My husband might even cease being a tolerant lover and become a demanding boss. He would have the right to criticize my appearance during working hours, my promptness, general technique and efficiency.

"Under the present system, we views do our best BUT UP TO LOVE. We worry and skimp and stand occasional unfairness—just as our husbands stand unfairness from us—because we are doing it as LOVING PARTNERS.

"BUT IF IT WERE ALL PUT ON A BUSINESS BASIS, I'M AFRAID THAT ROMANCE WOULD SOON FLY OUT OF THE WINDOW.

All right, now it's YOUR turn. What do you think? SHOULD THE WIVES WORK, LEAVE ON A PAY CHECK?

And here's still another one that's bound to wring many an angry home: DOES THE DOMESTIC WOMAN FILL AS IMPORTANT A PLACE AS HER WORKING SISTER? S. Gierae of Fayette, Mich., speaking DEAR ELSIE:

"Why should people—particularly parents—feel that the girl in business is so much more successful than the girl who tends the home?

"Should a young wife dressed in gingham, stirring up sunshine cake for baby's birthday, be made to feel inferior to her sister who is tapping keys down town?

Isn't the wife filling as great a place as the typist?

A Dangerous Derelict

By Nelson Harding

Wrecked long ago by defiant Powers which ignored its "mandates" and by the bickerings of its cliques, the League of Nations is but a drifting ruin.

Out of its still floating hulk, however, came—as the jetsam of diplomacy—the Brussels Conference to be held under the Nine Power Pact.

America is going into the Brussels Conference.

Now America must be very careful that her course lies safely clear of that "dangerous derelict"—the League of Nations.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Dear Miss Robinson:

I am enraged by a certain aspect of the criminal problem—namely, the hospital care given confessed criminals. The recent supposed case in Massachusetts is an example. Here is a confessed Hoe Robinson murderer. Yet he is receiving the best care medical science can offer.

The State is now making every effort to restore his health, at the expense of the taxpayer.

There can be only one excuse for giving such a man scientific service—A SENSATIONAL TRIAL. We are enraged for this that we willingly spend huge sums. And meanwhile countless worthy lives are lost for lack of medical care—or the criminal's own family starves.

—Nela Campbell, 18,
Cohasset.

That's That

By Bruce Gustin

THE loss of 19 lives in the wreck of the United Airlines transport plane which crashed against a mountain near the Utah-Wyoming line made this disaster the worst in the history of commercial aviation in the United States.

It will neither stop nor retard the development of aviation. To air-minded people, it was just a regrettable accident which in no way indicates flying is not being made less hazardous all the time. As planes are made larger and more of the big ships are put into service, it is only natural that when a crash does occur the loss of life is going to be larger.

Flying is being made safer, in spite of the crashes which do occur occasionally. Department of Commerce records show that while there was an accident for every 124,109 miles of scheduled transport flying in 1928, there was only one accident for every 1,047,197 miles in 1936.

The principal lesson from this airliner wreck seems to be the need for better weather reporting facilities.

The plane crashed between Rock Springs, Wyo., and Salt Lake City, Utah. Weather conditions in both those places were good. But in between, over the mountains, there was a severe local storm. It was in this storm that the plane crashed.

That President Roosevelt is understanding more and more the imperative need of balancing the budget is indicated by the statement from his speech on the annual community mobilization for human needs:

"The Federal Government with the return of prosperity must more and more narrow the circle of its relief activities and reduce the amount of Federal revenue to be expended in the amelioration of human want and distress.

"I say this because we all agree that unless Federal taxes are to be greatly increased, the expenditures have to be brought within the existing tax receipts."

He then said that Federal/government relief activities HAVE to be curtailed.

Tax burdens cannot be increased much more without further depressing business, creating more unemployment and necessitating greater relief expenditures.

The massacre of thousands of innocent men, women and children by Japanese bombers and Japanese soldiers in China is horrifying.

Japanese invasion of China is an act of unjustified aggression. Japan has repudiated treaties she signed with the United States and other nations for the preservation of peace.

But while we are in our right minds we are not going to sacrifice American lives to avenge those wrongs.

We should know from our experience in the World War that a war to stop war is futile.

Stylists Favor Red Hair

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Red heads win over blondes in the deliberations of the National Hairdressers' Association meeting in New York. That is, if you're stepping out and you want to be right in the mode, you would better be a red head. Don't worry if you happen to be a brunette or a blonde. That can be attended to. It can happen here.

Edwin C. Hill

Can it be Katharine Hepburn and Ginger Rogers who today sport these locks? Don't ask me. Out from Sidney of Yale and Frazier of The Golden Hoop. The art of hairdressing is one of the most subtle and elusive known. It can change the high art of hairdressing with a butterfly net.

Personal adornment, fingers and strange mandates appear from the fair realm of fashion. Some are fetching. Ponderous hoops have been written, modified, pruned and moulded from the shoulders to the ankles.

Among the Madges and Marjories of the modern maze has been the short, mannish bob, adhering closely to the head and ears, a la Joan of Arc. Then the pendulum swung to the other extreme in the Mae West period. Now it's the red head's day. Why? Well, the feminine urge to be conspicuous.

Matrimonially must be a standing joke. Many a man has married a redhead with the idea that she'd be a fiery tigress in the boudoir, but regretfully finds out that she's a lamb. Many a man has married a blonde because he thought she was a cold, calculating iceberg, only to find that she's a regular volcano.

Young men just starting out can't get good jobs and can't marry. There is more and fiercer competition for men. Therefore, there is more stability in all feminine adornment—enhanced color, restrictive dress and flaming outfits, etc.

It doesn't seem to make sense. In a world of red heads, the cry that single men should be red would be as inconspicuous as ever. The smart girl would be the one who stayed close to the farmer who plants beans when everybody else is planting corn.

And then again, there is the question of weather and personality. A feminine head is enough to require and heavy-lifting explanation.

SIX TYPES FAVORED

Once upon a time, running through a file of the new fashion leaders, Lady Esme, I invented a symposium of hairdressers, cosmeticians and fingertips of hairdressing, which would take matters into their own hands and settle it all. And in those days husbands just happened along wherever the girl and her mate chanced to be.

History and fashion both have repeated and are repeating themselves. Six types are favored as the ideals for the year. Of course, the blonde forever will be the favorite, but the brunette and the red head are also favored by men. Platinum is still in vogue, as are black and white. Nothing has been said about the gray-haired girl.

Neither has the subject been mentioned as to whether a man who wears a powdered wig is a pretty sissy or not.

Professional athletes create for the moment a vogue of shaved heads, mustaches and sheepskin coats. Only for the daylight hours, of course. Evening dress is varied, adventurous, charming, experimental and a lot more attractive than the old-fashioned tuxedo. There is no reason why a lady shouldn't be as fancy as she wants to be in her evening dress.

A PROFESSOR'S VIEW

The professor's attitude seems to be that the hair is the crowning glory of womanhood. Some of the redhead's wit and temperament would seem to be in her hair. Some wish seemed to prevail that the redhead would be a feminine urge to the masculine.

Professor Lyons, a specialist in the mental make-up of women, says that a woman's hair is the crowning glory of womanhood. Some of the redhead's wit and temperament would seem to be in her hair. Some wish seemed to prevail that the redhead would be a feminine urge to the masculine.

REGIMENTATION BALKED

One thing we see in the last Saturday Evening Post article of Mrs. Roosevelt's is that what we thought was going to be a regimentation of women is not to be. Mrs. Roosevelt is a woman who doesn't a pretty dress and is a pretty woman.

Professor Lyons agrees that the modern woman is dressing more for men and sheepish less formally, but not to the daylight hours. Daylight dress is varied, adventurous, charming, experimental and a lot more attractive than the old-fashioned tuxedo. There is no reason why a lady shouldn't be as fancy as she wants to be in her evening dress.

March of Events

By Benjamin DeCasseres

Once upon a time there was a lad who owned Arizona. A giant wrestler or great woman who defeated all comers in Lima sat down as he remained on the ground. If he ever got off the ground he was defeated. He had to be kept used to time.

Hermione, the strolling bard of Arizona, was paid to tell of Antaeus' woes. Every touch of Antaeus' arms pulled him off the ground and landed him a bit nearer.

Now Antaeus of this fable for Uncle Samuel Antaeus, sometimes known as the United States, is KEEP YOUR FEET ON THE HOME GROUND.

If you go up into the air of "World Wide Idealism," which is the mess we're in by the lackadaisical and wad-peelers of Europe, you will get a nervous tumble than you got when you left your good earth to enlist in The War to End All Wars in 1917.

Mrs. Cleo Johnson, widow of the late Martin Johnson, jungle explorer, is coming back from Africa to join forces with Vincent Lopez, noted orchestra leader, to give him some information on the origin of that form of nerve-torture known as jazz.

Nothing so nobly indicates our backward march to the jungle and to the insanities of pure savagery as the persistence of jazz. It has the time-beat of primitive maniacs. It is unpleasant to hear. Chopin, Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert and even the sublime and heaven-storming Wagner are wholly dances.

It is said that jazz is "popular." It was made "popular" by a set of "composers." (God save the mark!) and "band leaders" who sold it to the post-war public on the belief that popular taste had sunk to the levels of jungle jazz.

Meanwhile, Oscar Straus, the waltz king, is in the country with the heartening assurance to those of us who still love good music that "the waltz will never die." And that means WALTZ not orchestral monkey-calls.

The procession out of Russia of Red and Pink radicals continues. The Reds have turned Pink and the Pinks have turned Red, White and Blue. What they saw in Stalin's "Utopia" has renewed their love for "Capitalistic America"—especially as the committee from the home front in their pockets.

The chief political row in Washington is the Supreme Court packing. The Administration wants to add six members to the Supreme Court. Like the Democratic Party, the Supreme Court is divided into liberals and conservatives. Justices Brandeis, Cardozo and Stone are liberals. Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland, Butler and Roberts are conservatives. Chief Justice Hughes is a conservative who sometimes votes with the liberals.

But Mr. Lyons continues:

I, too, was infected by that disease. I was ready to liquidate classes, purge millions, sacrifice freedoms and elementary decencies to arm self-appointed dictators with a flaming sword. It was a species of the strange fatalistic delusion that has prevailed for 20 years in the name of peace, but only and the simple truth is that I was afraid of Russia.

But see Mr. Lyons' confession.

I, too, was infected by that disease. I was ready to liquidate classes, purge millions, sacrifice freedoms and elementary decencies to arm self-appointed dictators with a flaming sword. It was a species of the strange fatalistic delusion that has prevailed for 20 years in the name of peace, but only and the simple truth is that I was afraid of Russia.

Mr. Lyons, as he grows into mental manhood, will discover that what he was afraid of was Communism was the oldest force in the world of men—HUMAN NATURE. It is certainly a fascinating history, never more so than when it wears the mask of fanatical ideals.

The American disease is sex, man's neurotic condition of our Congressmen, the members of 48 State Legislatures and thousands of city councils, town and country councils, who do nothing but pass laws when Nero was fiddling and Rome burned.

Bruce Barton, in a recent address, said that, he were elected to Congress from the 17th New York congressional district he would "move to repeal a law a week."

Seventy-five Congresses have passed 50,262 statutes. The last Congress passed, according to Mr. Barton, 13,000 laws, 900 of which were actually signed by the President. It is probable that if an investigation were made it would be found that we are living under 1,000,000 laws, passed since 1776, few of which have ever been repealed and very few of which have even been enforced.

The U. S. A. probably holds the record for laws, which may explain why, as Mr. Hoover said when he was President, we are "the most lawless people on earth."

We ought to have a Couple of repeal Congresses.

Drug Sales to Children

THE case of a Watertown boy found unconscious with a still-smoldering marihuana cigarette between his fingers brings the menace of this narcotic forcefully home to parents.

It gives powerful emphasis to the recent warning of Mrs. Arthur B. Webber, Eastern Massachusetts secretary of the Parent-Teacher Association, who said:

"Narcotic cigarettes are being sold to school children. It is time that we faced the situation, obtained all the facts and punished those who are responsible."

Clearly this is an evil that cannot be ignored. Fathers and mothers are not going to permit the sale of dangerous drugs to their sons and daughters. Police must take action. They must take action NOW.

The marihuana cigarette must be recognized as a DEADLY DRUG in every city and town of New England.

Massachusetts and a few other States have prohibited its sale, and the police, State and local, can and do make arrests under the statute.

But until the entire country, including ALL New England, recognizes the evil and destroys it by adequate State and Federal laws carrying harsh penalties, our children will be potential prey for the pedlars who infest school neighborhoods.

Making Bay State Safer

TODAY'S announcement by Chairman Ralph W. Robart of the State Board of Parole interests everybody, freed prisoners esnecially. He tells us

"Sixty - six paroles, probably a record number, were revoked in Massachusetts during the past month. More may be expected.

"I and the board are determined to make our Commonwealth a safer place in which to live.

"We are also determined to assure our citizens peace and freedom from the menace of lawlessness."

That is the right attitude. The freed prisoner should enjoy his liberty only while he behaves. When he violates the law he ought to be returned to a cell.

Mr. Kennedy Keeps Promise

THE labor standards fixed for American seamen by the Maritime Commission are the fulfillment of a promise made with courage and KEPT WITH FAITH.

Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy said in the beginning that labor was going to get a square deal in the new American Merchant Marine, and he has MADE GOOD.

Low pay, unfair manning practices and bad living conditions were the major grievances of American seamen, and the cause of much of the unrest that has disrupted the maritime industries in recent years.

The Commission has gone all the way over to the labor side of this controversy.

It has set fair minimum standards of wages.

It has provided for adequate manning of ships.

It has made mandatory the provision of decent living quarters for crews aboard ships.

Labor deserved these corrections of unjust conditions, and got them from the Commission which holds a peaceful frame of mind among workers to be essential to the restoration of American maritime prestige.

As an example of the good faith the Commission has shown in keeping its promise to labor, it has established every possible safeguard against the tendency of MINIMUM wages to become MAXIMUM wages.

It obtained commitments from ship operators that they would not regard minimum standards as maximum standards, and bulwarked that policy by reserving every right of collective bargaining FOR THE WORKERS.

The Maritime Commission has given labor the square deal PROMISED.
